BOSTON COLLEGE.

THIS institution, under the care of the Fathers of the Society of Jesus, was incorporated May 25, 1863, by the State of Massachusetts, with power "to confer such degrees as are usually conferred by colleges in this Commonwealth, except medical degrees." Schools were opened Sept. 5, 1864.

The act of incorporation provides that "no student of said College shall be refused admission to, or denied any of the privileges, honors, or degrees of, said College, on account of the religious opinions he may entertain." Students who are not Catholics will not be required to participate in any distinctively Catholic exercise, nor will any undue influence be exerted to induce a change of religious belief. But though no difference of creed will be a bar to admission, evidence will be demanded of the candidate to prove a good moral character.

DEPARTMENTS.

I. CLASSICAL.

The course of instruction is divided into two Departments. In the Classical, the Ratio Studiorum is observed, and the studies given in the subjoined schedules pursued. The full course requires seven years; three of which are spent in the preparatory classes, and the remainder in the regular collegiate.

II. ENGLISH.

To the original Classical course was added, September, 1879, at the special instance of the Most Reverend Archbishop, a department in which the study of the ancient languages is superseded by exclusive application to English, the modern languages and the sciences. This course is intended to offer the advantages of a thorough English education to that class of our youth, who, not intending to follow the professions, stand in no special need of classical training; but for whom it is of importance that they be well grounded in their faith, and spend a few years, at least, under healthy religious influences.

ADMISSION.

For entrance into the Classical department, a knowledge of the fundamental principles of Grammar and Arithmetic will suffice; for entrance into the English department, a complete knowledge of these two branches will be exacted.

On admission the pupil is examined to determine what classes he should enter; and no student shall be promoted from any class till his progress justifies advancement. To prevent exclusive devotion to one pursuit, it has been found necessary, for culpable failure in one branch, to refuse promotion in all the rest. Nevertheless, on account of age or peculiar circumstances, exemption from certain studies is sometimes conceded, in which case the scholar is placed "out of course," and is not reckoned as a candidate for honors or for graduation.

TERMS.

Boston College is for day-scholars only.

The terms are thirty dollars per session of five months, payable in advance; besides the fee of ten dollars for the diploma, there will be no further charge. All bills must be settled before graduation.

SESSIONS AND HOLIDAYS.

The first session begins on the Tuesday after the first Monday of September; the second, on the first Monday of February; but students are not precluded from entering at other times.

The following are the ordinary holidays:—

Every Saturday.

The days of a session remaining after the close of an examination.

All the holydays of obligation.

From the 23d of December to the 2d of January.

From Wednesday in Holy Week to Wednesday in Easter Week.

The Feasts of St. Patrick and St. Aloysius.

Thanksgiving Day, Washington's Birthday, April 19, Decoration Day, June 17.

Attendance will be required for a short time on the first Saturday of the month, not for class recitations, but for certain religious and literary exercises.

DAILY ORDER.

The hours for school are from 8.30 A. M. to 2 P. M., with short recesses at convenient intervals. Special arrangements will be necessary in each individual case, to excuse later arrival. During the progress of the examinations, the time for closing will be somewhat anticipated.

The first half hour of each day is occupied in attendance at Mass. One hour a day is devoted to Mathematics; two hours a week to the study of Modern Languages; and the rest of the time is spent in the principal class of Latin, Greek, or English.

CLASS STANDING.

For each memory lesson, according to its excellence, the scholar receives a mark, grading from ten down; for translation, from twenty; and for themes or composition, from thirty: as the labor of preparation of these various exercises, and their relative importance, are considered to be to each other as one, two, and three. At the end of each month, public proclamation is made of the average of all marks, in the separate departments of Classics, Mathematics, and Modern Languages. The average of these monthly averages is what is termed the average of monthly results; at the middle examination, averages are given in like manner for the various branches, and a common examination average struck. To obtain the term average, that of the monthly results and of the examination are added, and their sum divided by two. In the second term or session the same method is followed, and the year's results are seen, in the average resulting from the combination of those of the two terms. According to this average of results for the year, commencement honors, grade, and promotions are determined.

DEGREES.

At the end of the year devoted to Philosophy, usually the seventh in the Classical Department, the degree of Bachelor of Arts will be conferred on those students who shall have attained the required yearly averages and passed satisfactory final examinations.

For the further degree of Master of Arts, it will be required that the applicant shall have continued his studies in College one year, or studied or practised a learned profession for two years.

RELIGIOUS TRAINING.

The moral and religious part of education is considered to be incomparably the most important. Catholic students, if not excused for good reasons, are required to be present at Mass every day, to recite the daily catechetical lesson, to attend the weekly lecture on the doctrines of the Church, to make the annual retreat, to present themselves to their confessor every month, and, if they have not received the Sacraments of Penance, Confirmation, or Holy Eucharist to prepare for their reception.

LITERARY AND ATHLETIC FACILITIES.

There is an unusually large number of Societies in which, under the moderatorship of College officers, the work of the class-room is supplemented, or special fields in the liberal arts cultivated.

A choice collection of books, numbering about four thousand, affords the student ample means, both for the preparation of lessons and themes, and for reading in connection with his studies.

For his physical development, provision has been made in the well-equipped gymnasium of the Young Men's Catholic Association of Boston College. Here he can enjoy the advantages, not only of a complete apparatus, track, baths, etc., but also of a competent and responsible instructor who will direct and control his exercises.

REGULATIONS.

On arriving at the College, the students will repair immediately to the cloak-room, where they will deposit their books, overcoats, etc.; thence they will proceed directly to the gymnasium, where they will remain till time for Mass.

Those who are not required to be present at Mass, if they arrive during Mass, will remain in the gymnasium.

No class is to leave the gymnasium for the school-room, unless accompanied by the teacher.

When any one obtains permission to leave the class-room, he is to return without unnecessary delay.

The places for recreation are the gymnasium and the court. All the rest of the premises will be considered as "out of bounds."

Playing ball, snowballing, pitching, and all games that endanger windows, are prohibited.

Whoever damages the College property must make compensation.

No boisterous conduct is allowed in the corridors or class-rooms at any time. Even in the gymnasium, and during recreation, the behavior should be decorous.

The use of tobacco is prohibited.

In fine, any conduct unbecoming the character of a gentlemen will be regarded as a violation of the College rules.

Religious motives being habitually appealed to, little need has been experienced of frequent or severe punishment.

Flagrant offences, such as are detrimental to the reputation of the College, or are obstructive of the good of other pupils, are grounds for expulsion.

For faults of ordinary occurrence, such as tardy arrival, failure in recitations, or minor instances of misconduct, detention after school or the task of copying or committing to memory some lines of an author, is usually found to be sufficient penalty.

PARENTAL CO-OPERATION.

The efforts of teachers and prefects will be much facilitated if the co-operation of parents can be secured.

Parents are, therefore, earnestly requested to insist upon daily study at home, for two or three hours at least, to notify the Prefect speedily in case of the withdrawal of their sons, of necessary detention from, or tardy arrival at school, of failure to receive the monthly report; to attend to notifications, always sent by the Prefect the second day of an unexplained absence, or for lessons signally bad during a considerable length of time; and not to pass over without inquiry averages of lessons falling below seventy-five.

Acknowledgments for 1893-94.

The President and Trustees of Boston College herewith desire to express their grateful recognition for the following benefits received during the current year : —

THE FATHER CHARLIER SCHOLARSHIP.

In order to commemorate the semicentenary in religion of a former Professor, the Rev. Alphonse Charlier, S. J., the gentlemen of the Immaculate Conception Conference, of the St. Vincent de Paul's Society, resolved to found a scholarship in his honor. The subscriptions obtained from the friends of the Church and College amounted to $1,628, of which $1,500 have been invested for this foundation, which will hereafter furnish some deserving youth with an education.

The remainder of the sum was assigned to supply the medals and premiums for this year's award. If a surplus should still be left, the President and Trustees will be happy to devote it to the "Open Air Fund" of the St. Vincent de Paul's Society, whose members evinced such earnest and self-sacrificing interest, in establishing this appropriate, as well as kind, memorial to their Spiritual Director.

A purse of fifty dollars, presented by a devoted friend of Father Charlier's, and of the College, went as special prizes to the students in the Junior Christian Doctrine.

THE ROSE FITZPATRICK SCHOLARSHIP.

The excellent lady, whose memory is perpetuated by this wise liberality, donated to Boston College a sum sufficient for the foundation which bears her name.

THE LIBRARY.

Miss Edith Agnes Salter, one hundred volumes. A choice collection of fine old classics.

The Hon. Joseph H. O'Neill, War and other documents.

The Library of the City of Boston, Duplicates.

The Honorable, the Mayor of Boston, Reports.

Secretary William M. Olin of the Commonwealth.

Colonel Daniel S. Lamson, Valuable Pamphlets.

Mr. Bernard Feenan, Eleven Volumes.

Mr. N. P. Hill, Speeches and Papers on Silver.

Miss Emma Carey, Day-Spring from on High.

The Rev. R. F. Harris, O. S. A., History of Villanova College.

The Triennial Catalogue.

The features of this issue of the Triennial, consist of

A Monograph on the College Library, which follows, and

A Two-fold List of Graduates,

which has been corrected up to date, and will be found at the end of this Catalogue.

The Boston College Library.

I. HISTORY.

The natural order of creating a Library simultaneously with the foundation of a seat of learning, was rendered impossible by the finances of the new establishment opened in 1863, which comprised the College and the residence of the Jesuit Fathers connected with the Church of the Immaculate Conception. Still, through the timely and liberal aid of a few friends, the professors and preachers were not altogether left to draw on their stores of knowledge accumulated elsewhere. In fact, as a matter of grateful remembrance, it is pleasant to recall this accidental origin, since it associates our treasury of books with names among the clergy and laity held in deserved esteem by many of our Bostonians. These early benefactors planted fine trees, although at random ; and enable us now, at the close of this third decade of the College, to embrace their contributions in a scientific plan, and consummate their hopes of a noble Library.

The stately tomes, which form the nucleus of the Theological alcove, were contributed by the Rev. Joseph Coolidge Shaw, S. J. who, after his conversion to the Catholic Church, went abroad and with the cheques of a generous father bought many volumes in Paris and Rome. His Harvard "Detur," with the signature of "Josias Quincy, Præses," and his exquisitely written notebooks of Theology, done at Rome and Fordham, are of a deeper personal interest, and much treasured by his religious brethren.

In order to supplement this stock, and to help and encourage the first President, the Rev. John B. Bapst, S. J., in the development of the library, Colonel Daniel S. Lamson, of Weston, gave more than tithes, inasmuch as he presented one third of his collection of standard works made during a long sojourn in Europe. Moreover as a greater and more comprehensive boon, for which many a College acknowledge themselves his grateful beneficiaries, he transferred to the Trustees, the share of the Boston Athenæum he had inherited from his father.

The year 1875 chronicles the splendid accession of some 5,000 volumes, the bequest of the Rev. Stanislas Buteux, a secular priest of the Archdiocese of Boston. He was an indefatigable as well as intelligent book-buyer. In fact, there is pathos embalmed in his books and pamphlets and papers, when we remember him, the bowed, asthmatic invalid, with a meagre revenue, hurrying to the publisher, with every stipend he obtained, in order to secure some long-coveted work, beguiling some compassionate binder into putting abandoned cases about his unbound volumes, labelling them with his own economical hands, all the while proud and happy in the thought that eventually they would receive a place of honor in the Jesuit College. He was especially alive to the subjects of his day, and hence the Library is indebted to him for full lines on Slavery, the Civil War, and Education, as well as for long files of periodical literature. His ecclesiastical collection displays the deeply and variously read priest whilst his favorite cultivation — books and maps of the Holy Land — evince the piety of the contemplative recluse he became when a bronchial complaint put an end to his missionary zeal.

In the next breath after him, a benison is also invoked on the memory of the Rev. Manasses P. Dougherty, parish priest of St. Peter's, Cambridge, who, too, left his library to the College. This, with its rich green-liveried bindings, relieves the sober shelves, besides adding an ample and precious stock of the literary products of Irish genius, and a goodly treasure of Irish History and Biography.

On the death of Robert Morris, Esq., in 1882, another department became a fortunate heir. As yet no provision had been made for the ordinary literature of our language; it was done by the studios and noble-hearted lawyer whose least title to remembrance is that he was the respected protégé of the Lorings, the Danas, the Sumners and Phillipses.

Within the last year Miss Edith Agnes, the daughter of the late venerable Doctor Richard Henry Salter, has presented to the College the rare collection to which she had for years devoted all the enthusiasm of a bibliophile. It embraces among its hundred volumes, best editions of the Greek and Latin classics, specimens of the typography of Elzevir and Plantin, and books remarkable for royalty of former ownership and historical association.

In the meantime some conspicuous gaps, notably in the regions of the Classics and Ascetics, had been filled by purchase. Although this be the case, the fact that a mass so homogeneous was formed, from parts that drifted together from sources as casual as legacies, is remarkable. May it not be that the unselfish spirit and the continuous sacrifices, with which the Fathers of the College and Church first devoted themselves to the liquidation of the debts of the establishment and the extension of the edifice, were thus providentially required?

The Library was now ready for a respectable abode, which was furnished in 1876 by the Rev. Robert Fulton, S. J., in the upper hall of the connection between the residence and College. Alcoves and galleries, of elegant construction, enlarged space and made access easy to every volume. The proceeds of a Christmas collection were devoted to the acquisition of the Bollandist Acta Sanctorum. A crown was set upon this work in the card catalogue begun under Rev. Nicholas Russo, S. J., who was Librarian from 1878-82, and completed by the method and marvellous industry of the Rev. Francis Barnum, S. J., now a Missionary in Alaska, who besides listing everything down to the last leaflet, rendered invaluable services to the future historians of this institution by his gathering and arranging its documentary papers.

In the year 1890, which saw the latest remodelling of the College buildings on James Street, a change that might have proved disastrous came over the Library. As no provision had been made for it in the plan of reconstruction, a suite of apartments on the third floor of the connection was adopted as a habitat. A new administration has sought to compensate for the incongruous quarters by an increase of books to such an extent that inside of the last three years some 8,690 volumes, or more than one fourth of the entire accumulation of thirty years, have been added. Nor have these accessions been mere numbers; besides enhancing the amount of solid works already provided, they have opened entirely new departments of erudition. For them shelf room to array 5,000 volumes has been created, and is already absorbed to such a degree that further space must needs be secured to receive fresh consignments.

At the close of May, 1894, our history finds us in possession of 28,319 volumes arranged in 137 cases, distributed over three rooms.

It is grateful to conclude this sketch with a tribute to the enlightened liberality of the patrons and friends of the College. On approaching them with a statement of the needs of the Library, we have met with such substantial encouragement as to convince us that our first benefactors have found worthy imitators in those whose names are recorded on the list of contributors for 1893. May we not with such coöperation, cherish the hope that this so necessary growth will continue, until our collection of books shall have become that paragon of a Collegiate Church Library which might be naturally looked for in the Boston of the classic Athenæum and the world renowned Public Library?

II. OBJECT AND REQUIREMENTS.

A design of such scope and dimensions calls for support, and this will not be wanting if the peculiar object is understood. We are not aiming at a grand repository of such works as the scientific and literary specialist may wish to consult on rare occasions; but at the practical apparatus that will serve the every-day purposes of our professors and preachers. They, indeed, have their own collections, ad usum, in compliance with their religious profession, but as the arts and sciences ramify so broadly, these are inadequate. This in particular, as we cannot rest satisfied with the mere superficial glance that skims over an article of the encyclopædia, but must in many instances pore over the exhaustive treatise. At some of our colleges, alcoves are set apart for each lecture-course; but to reach the general library requires an exertion involving an outlay of time, energy, and personnel that ought to be obviated. We expect to do this with our prospective arrangement. A literary laboratory will thus be equipped which will enable each teacher to have his hands on his authors and immediate references, whilst larger resources are within such easy distances as cause no distracting interruption. As a consequence, the amount of effective work done by the Professors will be increased and the wear and tear of consultation diminished. The students of the College will experience the benefit of these facilities not merely in the broader and more scholarly teaching of their masters, but also in the use of the books and appliances to which they will have such access through the Librarian and teachers as circumstances may warrant.

But in order to carry this plan into effect, we need additional room, and especially the introduction of electric lights which are the only safe and pliant means for using a number of shelves at present in unprofitable darkness. We have the assurance that this share of the improvement will be assumed by the College authorities, who have already displayed a munificent partiality that has borne them beyond the ordinary annual appropriation. It is then to those of our friends that are blessed with the double bounty of wealth and enlightenment, that we confidently appeal for subscriptions to develop the following departments which are deemed of more immediate moment :—

English and American Literature.

Philology.

History of Literature.

Complete sets of Reviews and Magazines.

A fund for Binding.

As an incentive to their generosity, our friends have but to glance over the subjoined exhibit, of what has already been accomplished, and further to receive the assurance that the literary zeal and economical management of funds, which mark the administration of the Library, will sustain and requite their kindly interest. The item of salary, necessarily so large in similar institutions which expend therein from thirty to fifty per cent. of the annual allowance, will absorb nothing of their contributions; neither will the entire department of Fiction, which elsewhere reaches the figure of twenty-five per cent. of the book account.

Within little more than a week, our sister College, Georgetown University, D. C., could raise $10,000 for the purchase of the John Gilmary Shea Historical Collection: with an equal sum the friends of Boston College would lift their Library to the respectable plane which they assuredly wish it to occupy.

IV. ACCESSIONS SINCE MAY, 1891.

This has no pretensions to be a complete list of the books acquired within the last three years, but a mere array of specimens, from which an idea may be formed of the results of much catalogue reading, ready improving of chances in the book-world and economical buying, usually in Europe.

THEOLOGY. Moroni. Dizionario di Erudizione. 104 vols. Drexelii Opera: the pocket edition in 32 vols. Many works in Asceticism and Hagiography.

HISTORY. A fine half-morocco set of the War Documents, 90 vols., was secured through the energetic interest of our Congressman, the Hon. Joseph H. O'Neil. Hubert H. Bancroft's Works, 39 vols., and his Chronicles of the Builders, 8 vols. Above all, Dom Bouquet, Receuil des Historiens des Gaules et de la France. Some rare books on Numismatics.

ANCIENT CLASSICS. Bibliotheca Græca, Didot, 69 vols. Corpus Scriptorum Historiæ Byzantinæ, the Bonn edition, in 49 vols., and some of the folios of the Typogr. Regia. Standard sets of single authors. Father Raymond Cunich's Homer's Iliad in Latin hexameters. 2 vols. folio.

In Latin, the Collection of Panckoucke, 212 vols., Nisard, 28 vols. and Barbeau. Specimens of the best classic presses, notably of the Bodoni. Dutch and French 4to editions: e. g. Olivet's Cicero. Father Brotier's Tacitus in 4 vols., 4to, large paper, was the property of Richard Brinsley Sheridan, to whom it was presented with this inscription: Facundo facundi, sagaci sagacis, scilicet R. B. Sheridan, Corn: Tacit: scriptoris vivo et acri ingenio libros hosce, viro eadem rerum cognitione subtili et rara facundia pollenti, qui amborum virtutes dum contemplatur, et excolere vellet, D. D. . . . The admirers of Virgil, Horace, and Tacitus will be pleased to find their favorites present in many forms, antique, stately, elegant.

NEO-LATINISTS. Although but a beginning has been made with the writers of the Renaissance, yet we see such notabilities as Vida, Bembo, Sannazar, Scaliger, Saumaise, Sadolet, and such Jesuit classicists as Maffei, Strada, Baldé, and the rare first poet of the Order, Frusé. Of especial interest to students, is a cluster of modern German professors, such as Ranke, who have hung chaplets of verse at the shrine of the Camænæ Latinæ.

ENGLISH LITERATURE. Whilst our efforts in this branch have been held in reserve for the coming year, no opportunity of purchasing reasonably has been neglected. Hence we can quote: Sections of the Camden and Caxton Societies' Publications, the Antiquary's Library, Goldsmid's Bibliotheca Adamantæa and Curiosa, Smith's Library of Old Authors, Arber's Reprints, and a growing set of Sir Egerton Brydges. The Drama has been more favored, inasmuch as a case has been appropriated to Shakespeareana, embracing many recent works illustrative of the Prince of Dramatists. There are, moreover, shelves filled with the British Modern and Miner Theatres, London Stage, Routledge's Old Dramatists, Dryden, and the Dramatists of the Restoration. Several collections of English and American Verse, made by dilettanti, were secured at auction.

ROMANCE LANGUAGES. In French, specimens of modern writers, together with many treatises on elocution, etc., from the library of a Professor. Also, Marmontel, Chateaubriand, in 32 volumes, etc. In Italian, Il Parnaso Italiano, in 54 volumes, and Metastasio, in 20.
